Enabling a Gmail account for use with UniStream Emailing

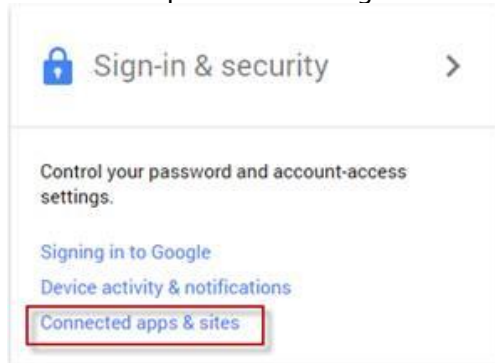

Some external email servers such as Gmail have security protection that is set as default to "Do not allow external or 3rd party application connect to your account" Please make sure this option is disabled. Or "Allow less secure apps: OFF" Please make sure this option is set to "ON"

On Gmail the process for enabling this is as follows-

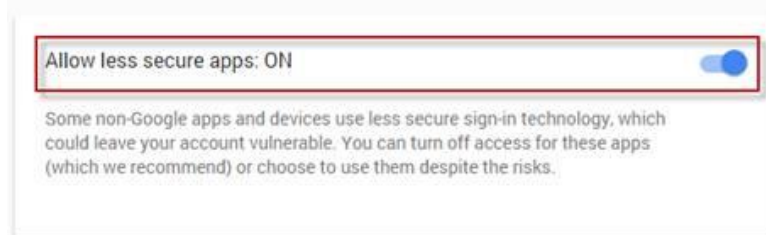

1. Once logged in select the Google Apps icon then select My Account.

2. Select the option under Sign-in & security for Connect apps & sites

3. Then select the option to enable less secure apps to be turned on (it is Off by default)

4. This should allow you to connect and send emails through your Gmail account using the UniStream. This seems to be a recent security feature from Google regarding applications that are not direct email clients.
